This spring join us for the Fourth National Conference on Environmental Conflict Resolution (ECR) in the beautiful Sonoran Desert of Tucson, Arizona. You'll gather with more than 450 expected participants to explore various pathways to enhance the effective use of ECR. Sessions will cover three conference tracks:

- Understanding ECR Principles and Practices
- Engaging Multiple Governments, Parties and Affected Communities
- Encouraging Innovation and New Applications

Plenary Themes and Speakers

You'll hear from leading authorities about the ongoing developments, current issues and future direction of ECR. Interact with hundreds of ECR practitioners, users, administrators and researchers to share lessons learned since the 2002 Conference. Catch up on federal agency ECR initiatives. Explore applications of ECR among Native communities, indigenous peoples, and within countries beyond our borders. Learn about the recommendations of the National ECR Advisory Committee.

Speakers Include

- P. Lynn Scarlett, Assistant Secretary of Policy, Management and Budget, U.S. Department of the Interior
- Michael J. Sullivan, former Governor of Wyoming
- Donald J. Barry, Executive VP and General Counsel, The Wilderness Society
- Brent Blackwelder, President, Friends of the Earth
- David Conrad, Executive Director, National Tribal Environmental Council
- Thomas C. Jensen, Chair, National ECR Advisory Committee

Customized Scheduling

Create your own custom schedule from 11 pre-conference training-day workshops, specialized USIECR Roster Member activities, and over 48 dynamic, interactive panels and roundtables. Participate in optional evening activities, such as a conversation with Bernie Mayer, author of "Beyond Neutrality."

Visit the Exhibitors Showcase to learn about the latest products and services in the ECR field. Gather informally with colleagues during thematic Networking Forums highlighting ECR trends among international groups, Native communities and researchers.

Who Should Attend

Federal, state, tribal and local government representatives, non-governmental organizations, community-based groups, environmental advocates, corporate leaders, resource managers and users, students and researchers, and professionals in collaborative problem solving and environmental conflict resolution fields. From ECR experts to novices, this is the conference to attend.

You'll Take Away

New contacts, networking relationships, enhanced knowledge, experiential skills for professional application, and information on the latest applications and innovations in the field of ECR.
